Old Barn Motor House wins our top award

An old barn that has been restored and transformed into a showcase for the Royal Automobile Club's collection of vintage vehicles has been named Surrey's best heritage conservation project.

The Old Barn Motor House, Woodcote Park, Epsom scooped the top prize in the Surrey Heritage Awards 2017, organised by Surrey Historic Buildings Trust and supported by Surrey Life Magazine. The architect and design team behind the conversion of the barn received their trophy and certificate from SHBT's Patron, Mr Michael More-Molyneux, Lord-Lieutenant of Surrey, in a ceremony at Loseley Park. Dame Helen Ghosh, Director-General of The National Trust, gave the keynote speech at the Awards ceremony.

In addition to the overall winner, two building conservation projects in Dorking were "Highly Commended" by the Surrey Heritage Awards judging panel: The Hope Mausoleum, Deepdene, and Mullins Court in West Street. Also shortlisted were: Undershaw (former home of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle) in Hindhead, The Home of Compassion in Thames Ditton, and St Martha's Priory in Chilworth, near Guildford.

Recent conservation grants

Recent grant applications approved by SHBT include:

- Old Well Cottage, Hoe Lane, Peaslake. This is a Grade II Listed open hall house dating from c.1400. A grant of £1,400 has been approved for re-rendering the whole of the front wall in three-coat lime.
- Boundary Wall, Old Well Cottage. The boundary wall at the same property is important because the wall has a high public profile in a rural location and contributes considerably to the setting of the listed house. Trustees approved a grant of £2,000 for repairs to the wall.
